

I'm a stay-at-home mom with a baby, and before the No-Call List took effect, I was getting calls throughout the day from telemarketers, often as many as a half dozen every single day. I also work from home, and found these calls to be a horrible intrusion into not only my personal life, but also my professional work time; my baby can also attest that they seemed to invariably come when she was getting put down for a nap! Please keep the No-Call List, both for Wisconsin and the United States, in effect; I view it to be the single best thing both the state and federal governments have done to help consumers in years, and would be heartbroken to see it go.

Thank you.
